Small abridgement of Nuremberg's museums

Germanisches Nationalmuseum

The Germanisches Nationalmuseum is the largest museum of cultural history within the German-speaking region and one of the most outstanding museums in the world. A voyage of discovery through modern German art and culture awaits you, from pre- and ancient history up until the present. We wish you a memorable adventure through German cultural history!

Spielzeugmuseum (Toy Museum)

The entire spectrum of historic toys, from Antiquity to the present day, unfolds behind the Renaissance façade of this citizen's house right in the heart of Nuremberg's Old Town: wooden and tin toys, dolls, home-made toys from the post-war period, or today's high-tech toys. Since opening in 1971, the museum, based on the collection of Lydia and Paul Bayer, has attracted over four million visitors from both at home and abroad.

Albrecht-Dürer-Haus (Albrecht Dürer's House)

"Back to Dürer" - this is the motto of Albrecht Dürer's House, presenting the living and working quarters of the great artist, Albrecht Dürer (1471-1528). The museum shows all facets of Dürer and his work. In the screening room, the multivision show "Albertus Durer Noricus" allows a unique novel view of Dürer's work. After this introduction, a tour takes visitors through all four floors of the house which was Dürer's residence between 1509 and 1528. A particular attraction: the large painting and printing workshop from Dürer's time where artistic techniques are demonstrated.

Neues Museum (State Museum for Art and Design)

The building designed by architect, Volker Staab, and opened in 2000 is located in the Old Town close to Nuremberg Main Train Station, fascinating visitors with its elegant clarity and transparent structure. The 100 m curved glass façade permits interesting views of the museum's interior and, particularly at night, provides an extraordinary backdrop to events on Klarissenplatz. With its collections of international art and of design, the museum is unique in showing both contemporary free art and applied art under one roof.

Kaiserburg (Imperial Castle)

The Imperial Castle, symbol of Nuremberg, rises high above the city. The castle, where between 1050 and 1571 all Emperors of the Holy Roman Empire of the German Nation were in residence at least for some time, is one of the most important imperial palaces of the Middle Ages. The Palais (main building) with its sumptuously furnished Emperor's rooms, the Roman double chapel, the deep well, and the Sinwell Tower, as well as a comprehensive collection of weapons and utensils can be visited today.
